DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This Office Action is in response to applicant's amendment dated January 30, 2004 in response to PTO Office Action dated October 27, 2003. The amendments to claim(s) 1, 18, 19, 23, 28, 29, 30 and 32; the deletion of claim(s) 9 and 25 and the addition of claim(s) 33 and 34 have been noted and entered in the record, and applicant's remarks have been carefully considered resulting in the action as set forth herein below.
2. Applicant's argument filed January 30, 2004 have been fully considered resulting in the office action as detailed below. With respect to applicant's argument regarding claim 19, Flurry et al. discloses a graphics-rendering engine (X Server program module 14, Fig. 1...as a display resource manager...col. 4, lines 14-44) to concurrently render two or more independent images for display on multiple display devices (...this invention is designed to function with several display devices connected to it...col. 5, lines 25-30) and a time allocator (rendering context manager (RCM) 22, Fig. 1) (...initially, Client B 18 and Client C 20,...access the X Server 14 in order to have display device resources...allocated to them...these accesses are performed in a manner that allows the client B 18 and Client C 20 to exist independently of each other...col. 4, lines 14-44...the rendering context manager (RCM) 22 is to ensure that as it permits each applications program to access the display device, it also places on the display device the proper rendering context, or environment , for that applications program...col. 5, lines 6-25) to arbitrate the use of the graphics-rendering engine between the two or more independent images with the Client B 18 and Client C 20 modules being able to display information.

Art Unit: 2676

Flurry therefore does indeed disclose arbitrating the use the of graphics engine between two or more clients.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim(s) 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,455,958 to Flurry et al.

a. Regarding claim 19, Flurry et al. discloses a graphics-rendering engine (X Server program module 14, Fig. 1...as a display resource manager...col. 4, lines 14-44) to concurrently render two or more independent images for display on multiple display devices (...this invention is designed to function with several display devices connected to it...col. 5, lines 25-30) and a time allocator (rendering context manager (RCM) 22, Fig. 1) (...initially, Client B 18 and Client C 20,...access the X Server 14 in order to have display device resources...allocated to them...these accesses are performed in a manner that allows the client B 18 and Client C 20 to exist independently of each other...col. 4, lines 14-44...the rendering context manager (RCM) 22 is to ensure that as it permits each applications program to access the display device, it also places on the display device the proper rendering context, or environment , for that applications program...col. 5, lines 6-25) to arbitrate the use of the graphics-rendering engine between the two or more independent images with the Client B 18 and Client C 20 modules being able to display information.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-8, 10-18, 23, 24 and 26-34 are allowed.
6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Prior art does not disclose or render obvious wherein the time allocator comprises a first circuit to permit a graphics device instruction from a graphics application to direct the graphics-rendering engine to process instructions associated with a second independent image while waiting for an asynchronous event to occur for a first independent image as per independent claim 1; allocation of time use of the graphics-rendering engine between each independent image; permitting, via a software instruction from a graphics application, the processing of instructions associated with a second image while waiting for an asynchronous event to occur to a first image as per independent claim 23; a first track circuit to track the period of elapsed time that a particular register uses the graphics-rendering engine; and a second circuit to convert the programmable elapsed period of time into an equivalent number of clock cycles as per independent claim 30; a first circuit implementing a software instruction, the software instruction to yield time allotted for instructions associated with a first independent image to use the graphics-rendering engine over to instructions associated with a second independent image as per independent claim 33; instruction transports that comprise an instruction memory area, a first register to define a start and an end to the instruction memory area and a memory access engine to fetch and deliver the instructions from the instruction memory area to the graphics-rendering engine as per independent claim 34. Flurry reference (U.S. Patent No. 5,455,958) discloses a graphics rendering engine with a time allocator but does not render obvious the processing of instructions associated with a second independent image while waiting for an asynchronous event to occur for a first independent image; the conversion of the programmable elapsed period of time into an equivalent number of clock cycles.

Dependent claims 2-8 and 10-18 from independent claim 1; dependent claims 24, 26-29 from independent claim 23; dependent claims 31 and 32 from independent claim 30 include similar matter allowable.

7. Claim 20-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's arguments are not persuasive. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
